Ossenfort Road Trip

by John Ossenfort

Here are some photos to show why I couldn't make the car show.

We took our 1941 Cadillac on an 1100-mile road trip around Oregon, starting in Portland and passing through Hood River, Bend, Klamath Falls, Grants Pass, then over to and along the coast and up to McMinville and Portland. On the way we visited the Columbia River Gorge, Mt. Hood, Crater Lake, the Rogue River, the redwoods, wine country, and, oh yes, some great automobile and aircraft museums and collections.

We were accompanied by 45 other classic cars, ranging in age from 1928 to 1947
Bear

Another line-up of cars in wine country at Carlton, OR.

These show the variety of cars on the trip: a 1935 Packard Limousine, a 1946 Lincoln Continental Cabriolet, a 1947 Cadillac 62 Convertible Coupe, and a 1933 Rolls Royce Phantom II Convertible Sedan

A few of the cars at our first hotel in Portland. My Cadillac is 3rd from the left.

Memory Lane Motors in Portland is actually a dealer – he has about 20 older cars from the 30's to the 60's available at fairly reasonable prices.

Ron Tonkin is a big car dealer in Portland and the northwest. He sells a number of brands, but collects mostly exotics, supercars and rare variants. Some of these cars had less than 100 miles on the odometer. This is about 1/3 of the collection.

Our final dinner was held in the Evergreen Aviation Museum in McMinnville, OR – a must-see if you're ever in that part of the country. Howard Hughes' giant transport plane, commonly referred to as the "Spruce Goose", which only flew once for a mile, dominates the museum. That's a full-size F-86 under the wing!

This is a private collection outside Portland. He has about 20 cars, mostly from the 20's to 40's, and leaning toward Fords. He does his own restoration.

The Western Antique Aeroplane and Automobile Museum is located in Hood River, OR. There are 3 large hangars full of classic cars of all kinds from the 20's through the 50's, with airplanes from the same period. This is a portion of the main car collection.

This was a fly-in weekend. All the planes here actually flew in to the Museum that week. There were about 2 dozen aircraft, none later than the 50's, that did the same. Several vintage planes left while we were there.

We dipped into California to see the redwoods at Jedediah Smith State Park. That's my Cadillac on the left Mount Hood was always in view the first few days, and we had lunch at Timberline Lodge, halfway up the mountain, on the third day – quite a climb for these old cars. Cottage Place chef Frank Branham trained there, and the hotel was used for the exterior scenes in “The Shining”.

This 1931 Peerless came from Ontario, Canada, and ran the whole trip with no problems.

Oregon has non-ethanol gas available, usually one or two pumps in each town of moderate size. They were obviously popular with these drivers, since the usual 10% ethanol tends to cause vapor lock in older cars, among other problems. I'm filling my Cadillac in the front of the line, with a 1932 Cadillac V-16 Phaeton and a 1930 Packard Touring behind me.
